OPPORTUNITIES

OPPORTUNITY knocks but once at the door of each man, it has been said. We do not vouch for the statement, but it is a good thing for those who are prone to neglect opportunities to keep in mind. This is particularly true of communities. We know of one city which once missed the opportunity to become the center of learning, and one of the leading cities of its county. This city missed its chance and remained for years a typical small town while the neighboring fields developed into a thriving city which has recently absorbed the city which missed its chance. All of which means what to Redwood City?

Are we missing our chances? Will the future generations of the Santa Clara valley hold us up as examples of citizens who allowed our opportunities to slip by us without taking advantage of them? Will we grasp the wonderful opportunity now presented to make Redwood City the greatest transportation center of the peninsula, or will we allow our harbor to remain blocked with mud, while business centers on the eastern shore of the bay, where poorer harbor facilities prevail, but where advantages are taken of every opportunity?

Two great opportunities now lay before Redwood City. That of deepening the harbor and making a deep water port; that of opening Broadway through Main street, and opening up all the territory on the eastern side of town for business purposes.

Either of these projects would be of great benefit to the town, but neither one will help in the least unless they get further than the point where they are merely the subject of talk.

Redwood City has neglected many advantages in the past. It has great opportunities now. Let's not miss these.

Reapportionment of Representation

"STAND on your head to be beautiful," says a Chicago beauty expert. "Keep a thing long. Thus Supervisor Thompson has characterized the suggested re-apportionment of supervisorial representation in this county. As the supervisor's district is the smallest in the point of voters in the county, it is only natural that he and his constituents should oppose any such change. His position is, we think, fully in accord with the wishes of the people whom he represents, and the only one which he, as their representative should take.

But aside from any sectional gain or loss which would result from the change of districts—considering the county as a whole, we cannot see but what the plan suggested is fair and just. At present two members of the board represent a total of 728 registered voters—the other three represent 19,360 registered voters, a very unequal distribution of power. The townships, as at present laid out, were formed in the early days of the county when the population was sparse and about equally divided throughout the county. The coastside has not kept pace with this side.

We hope to see a great development throughout the county within the next few years, a development which will include the coast as well as the bay shore, but the fact remains that at present the population is concentrated along the eastern edge of the county and that being the case, it would appear to us that the representation on the board of supervisors should be in proportion to the people.

There is nothing personal in the matter, and the fact that such a re-arrangement would mean the loss of a position to one or more of the present supervisors is to be regretted, but the basis of American government is equal representation, and where the votes of 262 voters in one part of the county count for as much as those of 7646 voters in another, the intent of free government is defeated.

ON USING THE HEAD

"THE boldest and most vicious attempt to put something over on the board in the past ten years," enough and a use will be found for it," has been said. The advice of the Chicago expert on feminine pulchritude seems to bear out the old adage. Many a head will be used now which has been but a useless ornament for years. A large number of flappers will now employ the upward projection of their spines, and look, while doing so at least, beautiful, maybe. But any use is better than none, and a head that serves no other useful purpose, can well be employed to stand on.

THE GREAT CIVILIZER

YOUNG and old leave the farms because they think city life is more attractive but the same agency which has given attractions to the city is now turning its energy toward the farm. Electricity will revolutionize farm life just as it has the city.

Light is the great civilizer. When a farmer's wife can press a button and flood her house with light, wash her dishes, pump and heat the water, run the churn, sewing machine, washing machine, ironing machine and vacuum cleaner, make ice in the refrigerator, curl her hair and do innumerable other things with electricity, how much more attractive will be the farm homes.

When the farmer can press a button and light his barn, milk his cows, chop feed for the cattle, saw wood, thresh grain and do scores of other things which are now downright drudgery, farm life will become more attractive for him and the boys.

Electric road lights will begin to appear at cross-road corners. The telephone and the radio will give the same universal communication facilities that are enjoyed in the city. Moving picture houses will gradually appear in advantageous locations which can be reached from a five or ten mile radius by automobile.

Thus, as electricity takes light to the farm, it will emphasize the advantages of farm life over crowded city life and draw the people from the thickly populated districts back to the rural districts.

REPORT OF HORTICULTURAL COMMISSIONER SUBMITTED

A report filed this week with the board of supervisors by A. W. Tate, county horticultural commissioner, gives some interesting information on the fight which is being waged continually in this and other counties against dishonest packers of vegetables.

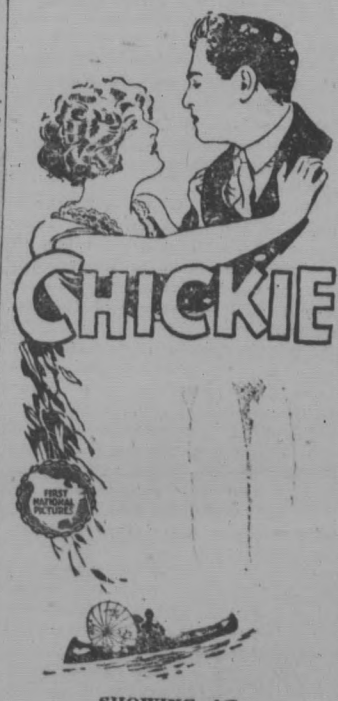

Commissioner Tate's report is in part as follows: "At the request of the Colima Vegetable Growers' Association, for a short period we inspected potatoes at the potato auction at Colima. The auction, after a short time, was removed to San Francisco, but while it was in operation we found 1,850 boxes of potatoes which were illegally packed and caused some to be reconditioned.

In the early part of the winter several complaints were received regarding the sale of frozen oranges along the highway. After about 150 boxes of oranges had been condemned and sent to a juice factory, the work of looking after this situation was undertaken by the state, so we have had nothing further to do about it.

Complaints were received that growers of peas and string beans were placing good material on the tops of the sacks which they shipped and poor quality underneath. We visited those of whom the complaints were made and warned them that they would be prosecuted if the practice was continued. Since then we have received no more complaints.

The department has also been busy in the eradication of pests which infest the vegetable and flowers of this county as shown by this section of the report:

"Experiments have been carried on independently, and in conjunction with various manufacturers and members of the State Department of Agriculture, to determine more efficient means of control of a number of our more important insect pests, particularly the mealy-bug, Argentine ant, and grey garden snail. There are now some very effective remedies on the market for these pests and there is no reason why they should not be eradicated. In order to obtain satisfactory results, though, control measures should be undertaken as a community effort and not individually as is done at present. One property owner may rid himself of ants or snails but unless his neighbors do the same it is only a short time until they are back on his premises.

COUNTY LEADS IN FLORAL INDUSTRY

There are many non-residents of San Mateo county who believe the only crop harvested on the peninsula is that of the commuter, and this is not always profitable. There are also many living in the county who do not know that one of the largest in all series in the country is flourishing right here in San Mateo.

This is absolutely true and the enterprise is that of the floral industry. San Mateo county ranks first in the production of flowers, Los Angeles being second in the state. The greater portion of the beautiful blooms sold in San Francisco are grown in the fertile soil of San Mateo county. The first thing that attracts the easterner to the city is the wonderful display of flowers both on the streets and flower stores. The county excels in roses, chrysanthemums, carnations and dahlias. Every day large shipments are made to Los Angeles, Utah, Seattle, Portland and other states. Last year in one day two carloads of chrysanthemums were shipped to New Orleans and eastern states were flooded with the beautiful blooms.

Portland and Seattle are the largest outside customers, they owing to weather conditions import large quantities of flowers of all varieties. San Mateo county has the largest area under glass by one ownership west of Chicago, that one being the large glass houses at Burlingame owned by Mr. McLehlan, the well-known nurseryman, who supplies the city market with all varieties of cut flowers in all seasons. The climatic conditions are so favorable that every known variety of flowers may be grown here during all seasons of the year. The industry brings millions of dollars to the county and thousands of men are employed in raising the rare blossoms and blooms for the pleasure of the city resident and the visitor from beyond the rocks. That such rare and beautiful flowers may be grown to perfection in the community speaks volumes for the climate and soil of San Mateo county. Nowhere else do they grow half so fair, so beautiful and fragrant. No wonder that the county is rapidly growing and bounding ahead of all other counties in the state. No wonder that the city resident delights in establishing a home here, even a week-end place is appreciated by the fog dweller by the bay. All want to enjoy the warm sunshine and flowers of the peninsula. This is a big industry and has enriched numerous nurserymen and almost every year finds new men launching into the business.

The pear crop of Sutter county does not equal the flower industry of this county, nor does the peach crop of Yuba. The only enterprise that surpasses it in the state is the orange crop of Los Angeles.

Last year there were imported to this county $40,000 worth of choice bulbs from Holland and many times that amount in flowers will be shipped this year. The county also does a big business in shipping shrubs and plants to all parts of the country. Last year 4152 shipments were made consisting of 1,533,807 trees, plants and shrubs. These were carefully inspected by County Horticultural Commissioner A. W. Tate.

San Mateo county leads the country with its luscious fruits of all kinds and San Mateo county provides the choice flowers and plants of every variety. The flower stands on Kearny street along side of the Chronicle building, containing attractive blooms from San Mateo county have made San Francisco famous. Visitors stop and gaze upon the excellent floral display, nowhere else to be seen.

A new branch of the industry which promises to add to the community's fame is the everlasting flower, flower immortal flower enterprise established in Montana two years ago by a rich Japanese firm. These flowers are dried in a large drier there and daintily pressed, packed and shipped to all points in the world. The flower is used principally in funeral decorations and are in big demand. The Montana firm can hardly supply the orders that are being sent to it from near-

OFFICIAL EFFICIENCY

SUBJECT OF PRAISE

Hardly a day passes that some one does not compliment Mrs. Elizabeth M. Kneese for the efficient way in which she conducts the county clerk's office. Mrs. Kneese knows her duties and she does them and sees to it that her clerical force also do theirs. Last week Attorney Cushing of the law firm of Cushing & Cushing of San Francisco spoke right out in the office within the hearing distance of everyone loudly praising Mrs. Kneese for her thoroughness, capability and courtesy.

Yesterday Thomas Breeze, the well-known attorney, who had business with the office highly complimented her for the manner in which the business of the office was conducted. Almost every day letters are received from attorneys complimentary to the efficient official.

The San Francisco Call of July 28 pays Mrs. Kneese a neat tribute in the following article. We disagree with the last portion of the article which says that Mrs. Kneese is partial to geraniums. She is a lover of flowers and nearly always has a vase full on her desk. Yesterday she had a bouquet of "Farewell to Spring" blossoms gathered on the hills of Montana. (It should be the hills of Tara), her girlhood home by the sea. The blossoms are most beautiful and are attracting much attention.

"Good housekeeping and good officekeeping are essentially akin. There is no great difference between neatness in housekeeping and neatness in an office. A vault full of records and a pantry full of canned fruit have much in common."

"These are the views of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Kneese, county clerk of San Mateo county and one of the most widely known woman officials in the state."

"We follow the same policies in the office that any competent and careful housekeeper would set for herself," she said today. "Neatness, orderliness and cheerfulness mean as much in a home as they do in an office. Running a home requires tact. Well, asking questions of applicants for marriage licenses does too. Usually they're a little bit absent minded, and you wouldn't forget to world want to have it down upon them just how businesslike and legal was the issuance of the document that caps their romance."

"The big desks and bulging steel files of the San Mateo County clerk's office look like those of most other such quarters. The touch of a woman's hand—and this touch might come from five deputies as well as Mrs. Kneese—is apparently confined to the essentials of the work at hand. Vanity cases, lipsticks and rouge are conspicuously absent. There is only one man in the office."

"None of the popular feminine follies are in evidence. A vase of geraniums, not an unusual sight in any office, is the nearest thing to dainty ornamentation."

"Mrs. Kneese creates and preserves the most valuable records of San Mateo county—those of the County Board of Supervisors and the Superior Court."

By all the big cities of the country. With its dry immortelles, cut flowers, plants and trees and shrubs, San Mateo county leads the country. The millennium will be here when the Southern Pacific Railroad Company electrifies its steam road down the peninsula and this will be done soon, if the signs of the time and the activity of the concern mean anything.

BOICELL ESTATE FILED

Letters of administration in the estate of Rico Boicelli are asked in a petition filed this week by Louise Boicelli, widow of the deceased rancher. Beside his widow the estate will go to the four children, Daniel, Mary, Raymond and Victor Boicelli. The estate is less than $10,000. Ross & Ross are the attorneys.

DIVORCE ASKED

Divorce proceedings were instituted this week by Mrs. Annie L. Langley against William Langley on charges of cruelty. The couple were married on September 28, 1901 and have five children. The plaintiff is represented by Ross & Ross.

GIRL ATHELETE IS KIWANIS CLUB GUEST

Miss Alda Silva, the girl athlete from Woodside, who recently broke the world's record javelin throw for women by 7 feet at the National Women's meet at Pasadena, was the guest Tuesday of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club, and told the Kiwanians of her experience in the south. The story of the Woodside girl was of great interest to the Kiwanians, and the support of the Kiwanis Club was promised Miss Silva in her future undertakings.

Frank Griffin, coach at the Sequoia Union High School, introduced Miss Silva and told the interesting story of the rapid rise to fame of the local girl. The meeting was under the chairmanship of Rev. C. E. Kennedy. The principal speaker was Chaplain A. J. Hayes of the United States Navy, now stationed at Vallejo. Chaplain Hayes is also lieutenant-governor of the 8th district of Kiwanis. Elmore B. Hinman gave a short talk on the convention at St. Paul.

THIS institution still leads the entire United States in number of patrons—enough people to create a great metropolitan city—over half the size of Detroit and larger than Milwaukee, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Seattle, Portland or Washington, D. C.

Surely the proof of a bank's popularity and service-giving ability lies in the extent of its patronage. And this growth has been dominantly natural—vastly in excess of the growth made thru absorption of existing banks.

The Bond Department of this bank offers an unusual service for investors.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

The last will and testament of the late Charles Holbrook was filed in the Superior Court of San Francisco this week. The value of the estate is considerably over the million mark. The will is dated May 2, 1921. It was signed by a codicil on July 18, 1923. A few months before his death the home here was transferred by deed to his two daughters, Mrs. Silas H. Palmer and Mrs. H. Knight. It is most likely the former will occupy a large part of the estate.

After the various bequests, the residue of the estate is ordered placed in a trust fund in charge of the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust Company. The income from which is to be paid, for life, to Holbrook's two daughters, Mrs. Mary H. Knight and Mrs. Olive Holbrook Palmer. After that the income is to be paid to the Pacific School of Religion.

In the codicil Holbrook bequeathed $50,000 to the religious fund to complete a gift of $100,000 which was promised. The sum of $50,000 was given before his death.

The largest bequest in the will is the sum of $50,000, which is turned over to the Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust Company. The trust is for the benefit of the Pacific School of Religion, which is a religious institution in San Francisco.

Other bequests in cash are: Mrs. H. Knight $10,000; Samuel A. Knight, son-in-law, $10,000; Mary A. Merrill, $10,000; Silas Palmer, $10,000; Charles H. Merrill, $5,000; Charlotte H. Wright, Corvallis, Oregon, $5,000.

The Associated Charities is given $5,000 in cash.

Miss Nancy Nunn, the courteous deputy in the county clerk's office at Redwood City, is enjoying her vacation in the wilds of Calaveras county. She is a modern Diana and also up in archery. She has taken the name of that location better take to the tall timbers before the beautiful clerk arrives or they will regret it.

Bids for the construction of the new Ravenswood bridge over San Francisco creek will be opened on September 2. It is a joint bridge. The estimated cost of the new bridge is placed at $17,500, with the construction expense apportioned as follows: Santa Clara county, $8,750; City of Palo Alto, $2,750; San Mateo county, $6,000.

Plans and specifications for the structure have already been completed. It will be built entirely of reinforced concrete.

Mrs. A. M. Goldswite, a wealthy resident of San Francisco, has purchased the beautiful estate on Alvarado avenue belonging to Mrs. John F. Merrill. The new owner is going to further develop the property. It was originally owned by the late Richard Stephenson, at one time the purchasing agent for the Southern Pacific Railroad Company.

The sum of $51,500 was paid for the holding. The property consists of nearly ten acres, wonderfully improved with gardens, lawns, choice trees and shrubbery and a magnificent residence well furnished. The late John F. Merrill purchased this home about twelve years ago.

Jack, Fred and Ruth Foley of Stockton are visiting their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Maloney on Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Maloney and children have returned from a two week's vacation spent in Stockton, Santa Cruz and Monterey.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Piers at the Palo Alto hospital Saturday, August 1st. Mr. Piers is the well-known dairyman and capitalist of Ravenswood. Mother and baby are doing nicely and will soon be home.

There is hardly a doubt but that Menlo Park may have the greatest young women in the world, and that is neither here nor there. They must not conduct parties at the Atherton anymore. An edict has gone forth from the sons of that municipality that no longer will they permit of parties being permitted. Joseph Pell has been given orders to rid the cozy corners, shady lanes and the beautiful bowers of such pests. Beware young men and seek other places for your foolish parties. Mr. Pell has also ordered guests to clean up the avenue and streets and keep them clear of all litter and campers. We have a smaller county law that should be rigidly enforced. Many camps are eating their meals and leaving without destroying the old papers, etc., and an uncleanly mess for the passer by.

Last Saturday George Aabel enjoyed a birthday party at his parent's home. The young man had reached the ninth milestone of his career and felt very proud and happy. Twenty-five guests were present to celebrate. Games were played and enjoyed. The feature was the tempting viands served late in the afternoon to the some-what hungry guests. The birthday cake surrounded by nine lighted candles was cut and distributed by the youthful host.

Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Lane left on Thursday for a motor trip to Oroville to spend their annual vacation. Mrs. Ernest Woodruff, accompanied by Bob Gilvin and Allee Bowen of Menlo Park, left last Saturday for Salmon Lake, in the Feather river country, where they will pass the month of August.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Reeder, the latter a sister of Mrs. C. P. Slinger, are here from their home in Chicago on an extended visit to the Slingers. The visitors are very much impressed with this place, so much so that they are thinking of leaving Mr. Reeder plans to open a large repairing shop in Menlo Park and make this place his permanent home.

The Reeder are welcome visitors to Menlo Park and it is to be hoped they will remain here.

James Artino believes in keeping up with the times. In truth he is a few jumps ahead. He has just installed another chair in his tinsorial parlors, making three in the shop. His parlors are the finest of any on the peninsula.

Ernest Chandler entertained a few friends at his home on Wednesday evening. Dancing and games were indulged in until a late hour when delectable refreshments were served by the host.

The pestiferous caterpillar is in our midst and has destroyed or rather eaten the leaves of the white oak trees in this locality. Not touching the live oak, something unusual, for a rule they attack both trees. This species is known as the tussock moth. It is smaller than the ordinary caterpillar but more destructive. They hang from the trees in large strings, making it disagreeable for the pedestrian who happens to pass underneath. The time will come when every oak in the county will be sprayed. It should be done now.

The big sensation of the week will be the street dance and carnival on Santa Cruz avenue from the highway to Railroad avenue. Booths of all kinds will be there, presided over by pretty native daughters who will sell merchandise of every variety. The inevitable fortune teller is to be present to tell the fortunes of all. Terpacchors may dance to their heart's content. The big even takes place every evening. Gay carnival colors will be displayed everywhere. The proceeds will go towards the fund of the Native Daughters to purchase paraphernalia for the Diamond Jubilee parade in San Francisco on September 9. To miss this event is to miss the biggest event of the times. Come early and see the gay throng in carnival dress. Come out and get the carnival complex; see the fortune teller, she may tell you your answers were, maybe they were money or an antipod of a large species. She'll tell you. The candy and ice cream booth will be in charge of one of the most fascinating young women in the county. She's not a bathing or painted beauty, but a fair product of Menlo Park. She will also be presided over by a charming throw dill care to the winds for the evening and enjoy the carnival.

Miss Devora Dupont, the charming deputy tax collector of Palo Alto who resides with her parents here, met with an automobile accident in the College Town last Tuesday evening, while coming home. She collided with another car. The young lady received a severe shock, but no serious injuries. She is a sister of Edith Dupont, the artist who designed all the colors for the street carnival. She also has charge of all the decorations for that affair.

Wednesday of last week, Miss Olive Cookson of Ravenswood, but for some time in charge of the confectionery department of the Little Green Door, was united in marriage to Harold Griffin, the local plumber. The marriage took place at San Jose. The bride is an unusually pretty young woman of the blonde type. Mr. Griffin is a contracting plumber and has resided in Menlo Park for some time. The young couple have taken up their residence here.
